

"How American Troops make the World a Better Place"

Our dedicated troops make our world a better place by fighting and sacrificing their valuable time, and sometimes their lives so you and I can have our rights to vote, protest and free speech.

They help to reform very corrupt countries like Iraq. They now are letting girls go to school in Baghdad which one year they would have gotten shot for.

This just shows how hard they work to make other peoples lives better.

The troops also make this world a better place by helping people in need. In Iraq when someone gets hurt they put their lives in danger and they help that person get to safety. Most people don't do stuff like that. And they set an example every day, to put others first and self second. This takes lot of courage and dedication, to our country to do this.

The troops always put something much bigger than themselves first, our countries freedom. And they do this even when noone else wants them to. Also, by giving up everything so every American can live safely and without fear and accomplish the American dream. And I think more people should have respect for them.

Thats how our troops make the world a better place for everyone to live in.
